What is the latest achievement in fight against texting while driving?

2019/07/09

Hello Victoria! The latest achievement in fight against texting while driving is the AT&T It Can Wait movement promoted by Victoria Justice. The AT&T Foundry have created a new app (it has no name yet) that can be used by parents to monitor, control and improve the driving behaviour of their teens driving their own cars. Parents using this system (which is, by the way, a great addition to the AT&T DriveMode app) can track all movements of their teens, and turn off cell phone calls and texting ability when it is necessary. The app gathers all statistics and these data can be used later to see if the driving behaviour of the teen improves with time. While this unnamed app from AT&T is not fully available and still under development, you can use texting while driving jammer and secure your teens from dangerous situations on the road because of texting while driving until AT&T It Can Wait unnamed app will be finished and available for usage.
